

CIVICS GRADES 7 TO 12

Curriculum Guide Junior High to Senior High

Original supplementary teaching material NOT an official Ministry of Education syllabus transcription and not official examination material.

INTRODUCTION

Civics cultivates the knowledge, skills, attitudes and values that enable learners to take part in community life with responsibility, respect and reasoned judgment. The course draws on government, law, ethics and everyday public questions, and grows six progressive units in each grade from Grade 7 to Grade 12 belonging and everyday citizenship first, then institutions and public decisions, rights and responsibilities, accountability and stewardship, national and global connection, and civic inquiry.

The general objectives for Grades 7–12 Civics:

1. Use civic vocabulary accurately in speech and in writing.
2. Explain public and classroom decisions using reasons and relevant evidence.
3. Listen respectfully to alternative views and take part in fair, non-partisan discussion.
4. Apply the ideas of each unit to a fictional classroom or community scenario.
5. Propose safe, fair, inclusive and evidence-based responses to civic problems.
6. Take age-appropriate part in community service without political bias.

A learner-centred approach is emphasised throughout the course. Teaching strategies are expected to engage learners actively—pair discussion, role-play, vocabulary matching, poster work and teacher-approved community projects—so civic ideas are practised, not only recited. Classroom debate stays non-partisan: no activity requires a personal political affiliation or disclosure, and legal or safeguarding questions are referred to qualified responsible people.

Source status: no dedicated official Civics syllabus was supplied for this repository. Every unit below is original supplementary teaching material for Grades 7–12 (six units per grade, Periods I–VI, three per semester) and should be compared with the school's approved scheme of work. Digital research links are omitted by design so the course works fully offline.

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 7 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Citizenship in everyday life

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in citizenship in everyday life. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Civics connects public institutions with daily conduct. A learner can contribute to a community before becoming eligible to vote. Rights and responsibilities should be discussed together, without treating rights as rewards for good behavior. Key content: 1. civics the study of people's rights, responsibilities and participation in public life. 2. community people connected by a place, shared interests or common responsibilities. 3. citizenship membership of a political community, involving rights and responsibilities. 4. responsibility a duty to act carefully and account for the effects of one's actions. 5. respect treating people with dignity even when their views or backgrounds differ.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 7 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Rules and fair decisions

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in rules and fair decisions. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Good classroom rules have a clear purpose and can be explained. Fairness may require different support for different needs. A popular decision can still be unfair if it excludes a vulnerable learner. Key content: 1. rule an agreed or authorized instruction that guides conduct. 2. fairness using just reasons and considering relevant needs when making decisions. 3. cooperation working with others toward a shared purpose. 4. inclusion making meaningful participation possible for people who might otherwise be excluded. 5. discrimination unjust unequal treatment based on a person's identity or background.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 7 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: Identity, diversity and dignity

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in identity, diversity and dignity. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	People have several identities, including family, language and community connections. No single group description explains every person. Respectful questions and listening are better ways to learn than stereotypes. Key content: 1. identity the characteristics and connections through which a person understands who they are. 2. diversity the presence of different backgrounds, experiences and ways of life. 3. dignity the inherent worth of every person. 4. stereotype an oversimplified assumption about everyone in a group. 5. dialogue a respectful exchange in which people speak and listen to understand one another.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 7 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: National symbols and shared belonging

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in national symbols and shared belonging. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Liberia's flag is one symbol of national identity. Symbols can invite reflection on shared history and responsibilities. Caring for one's country includes protecting people's dignity and improving public life, not hostility toward other countries. Key content: 1. symbol an object, sign or image that represents an idea or community. 2. heritage practices, places and knowledge passed between generations. 3. unity working together despite differences. 4. patriotism care for one's country and its people's well-being. 5. respect treating people with dignity even when their views or backgrounds differ.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 7 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Resolving disagreements peacefully

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in resolving disagreements peacefully. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Conflict is not the same as violence. People can disagree without threats or harm. For ordinary disagreements, calm listening and voluntary mediation can help; threats or abuse should be reported to a trusted responsible adult rather than handled alone. Key content: 1. conflict a disagreement involving interests, needs, actions or beliefs. 2. mediation help from an impartial person who supports others in resolving a dispute. 3. compromise an agreement in which each side makes a reasonable adjustment. 4. empathy trying to understand another person's feelings and situation. 5. violence the use of force or threats to harm or intimidate.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 7 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: A community service project

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in a community service project. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A useful service project begins by identifying a real need. Learners should ask permission, share manageable tasks and avoid dangerous work. A simple review helps a group learn what improved and what needs attention. Key content: 1. service work undertaken to meet other people's or a community's needs. 2. volunteering freely giving time and effort to a useful activity. 3. sanitation measures that keep surroundings clean and reduce health risks. 4. resource something people can use to meet a need. 5. responsibility a duty to act carefully and account for the effects of one's actions.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 8 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Why communities need government

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in why communities need government. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Government organizes public decisions and services. Public power should have defined limits and be used for public purposes. Accountability means people in authority should explain how decisions are made and resources used. Key content: 1. government institutions and people authorized to make and carry out public decisions. 2. law a binding rule made or recognized through a legitimate legal process. 3. authority a recognized power to make decisions within defined limits. 4. accountability the obligation to explain decisions and face appropriate review or consequences. 5. public interest the shared well-being of the community rather than a private advantage.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 8 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Three branches of government

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in three branches of government. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Liberia's constitutional framework distinguishes the legislative, executive and judicial branches. The legislature makes laws, the executive administers them and the judiciary interprets law in disputes. Their separate functions and checks help limit concentrated power. Key content: 1. legislature the branch of government responsible for making laws and exercising legislative oversight. 2. executive the branch of government responsible for administering laws and public policy. 3. judiciary the branch of government that interprets laws and resolves legal disputes. 4. separation the distribution of state powers among different institutions. 5. oversight checking how power or resources are used.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 8 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: County and community administration

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in county and community administration. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Local issues often require communication between residents and public offices. A county and a district are not interchangeable terms. Before presenting a request, find out which institution has responsibility and how residents can contact it safely. Key content: 1. county a major territorial subdivision of Liberia. 2. district an administrative or electoral area within a larger territory. 3. decentralization moving some public responsibilities closer to local communities. 4. consultation seeking affected people's views before making a decision. 5. representation acting or speaking on behalf of others while considering their interests.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 8 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: Elections and responsible choice

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in elections and responsible choice. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	An election needs clear procedures, informed choice and fair treatment. Candidates' promises should be examined for practicality, not accepted because of gifts or rumors. Classroom elections can model respectful campaigning without asking learners to disclose real political affiliations. Key content: 1. democracy government in which people participate in choosing leaders and public decisions under rules protecting rights. 2. election a rule-governed process for choosing representatives or deciding a public question by voting. 3. ballot a paper or other authorized means of recording a vote. 4. manifesto a public statement of a candidate's or group's proposed policies. 5. participation taking part in decisions or activities that affect a community.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 8 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Rights and responsibilities

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in rights and responsibilities. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Rights protect people against unjust treatment. Exercising a freedom does not justify harming others or ignoring their rights. When a right may have been violated, learners should use safe reporting routes and seek appropriate advice rather than retaliation. Key content: 1. rights protected freedoms and entitlements that people may claim. 2. liberty freedom to act and express oneself within lawful limits that respect others' rights. 3. equality equal dignity and equal protection rather than automatic sameness in every circumstance. 4. privacy protection against unjustified intrusion into personal life and information. 5. remedy a lawful way to seek correction or redress for a wrong.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 8 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: Public money and shared priorities

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in public money and shared priorities. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Public money should be planned and accounted for. A budget compares available revenue with proposed expenditure. Limited resources require choices that should be explained using needs, likely benefits and fair procedures. Key content: 1. tax a compulsory payment imposed by law to support public purposes. 2. budget a plan showing expected income and proposed expenditure. 3. revenue money received by an organization or government. 4. expenditure money spent for a stated purpose. 5. priority a need or goal given greater attention when resources are limited.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 9 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Evidence and responsible media use

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in evidence and responsible media use. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A message's popularity does not establish its truth. Readers should check who produced it, when it was made and what evidence supports it. A factual claim should be distinguished from a value judgment or personal preference. Key content: 1. evidence information that can support or challenge a claim. 2. source the person, record or observation from which information comes. 3. verification checking a claim against reliable and preferably independent evidence. 4. misinformation false or inaccurate information, whether or not shared intentionally. 5. opinion a person's judgment or belief, which may need evidence if it makes factual claims.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 9 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Child safety and respectful schools

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in child safety and respectful schools. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A safe school protects learners from intimidation and exploitation. Consent must be freely given and cannot justify abuse or override child-protection requirements. Learners should know trusted reporting routes and should not investigate dangerous incidents themselves. Key content: 1. consent freely given and informed agreement to a specific action. 2. safety protection from foreseeable harm. 3. bullying repeated or serious intimidating behavior that exploits a power imbalance. 4. dignity the inherent worth of every person. 5. remedy a lawful way to seek correction or redress for a wrong.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 9 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: Disability inclusion and access

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in disability inclusion and access. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Equal participation requires attention to barriers, not assumptions about ability. Accessible information, routes and activities benefit different learners. Consult affected people respectfully and avoid treating them as helpless or speaking for them without permission. Key content: 1. accessibility designing places or information so people with different needs can use them. 2. inclusion making meaningful participation possible for people who might otherwise be excluded. 3. equality equal dignity and equal protection rather than automatic sameness in every circumstance. 4. consultation seeking affected people's views before making a decision. 5. advocacy using reasoned communication to seek a change or defend a public interest.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 9 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: Honesty and everyday integrity

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in honesty and everyday integrity. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Integrity means acting fairly even when no one is watching. An improper payment can distort a decision and disadvantage others. Suspected wrongdoing should be reported with evidence through safe channels, without reckless public allegations. Key content: 1. integrity acting honestly and consistently with fair ethical standards. 2. corruption abuse of entrusted power for private benefit. 3. bribery offering or receiving an improper benefit to influence a decision. 4. accountability the obligation to explain decisions and face appropriate review or consequences. 5. transparency making relevant decisions, rules and records open to appropriate scrutiny.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 9 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Environmental citizenship

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in environmental citizenship. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Environmental problems connect individual actions with collective decisions. Reducing waste and protecting water require cooperation and safe practices. A project should consider who benefits, who may be harmed and how improvements can continue. Key content: 1. environment the natural and human surroundings in which people live. 2. conservation protecting and carefully managing natural resources. 3. pollution harmful contamination of air, land or water. 4. sustainability meeting present needs without undermining future people's ability to meet theirs. 5. prevention action taken to reduce the chance of harm occurring.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 9 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: Petitions and constructive advocacy

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in petitions and constructive advocacy. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Constructive advocacy identifies a specific problem and a realistic request. Evidence and respectful language help decision-makers understand the issue. Participation should be voluntary, and personal details should not be collected without a clear need and proper protection. Key content: 1. advocacy using reasoned communication to seek a change or defend a public interest. 2. petition a formal written request supported by one or more people. 3. evidence information that can support or challenge a claim. 4. consultation seeking affected people's views before making a decision. 5. dialogue a respectful exchange in which people speak and listen to understand one another.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 10 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Constitutional government in Liberia

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in constitutional government in Liberia. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A constitution establishes a framework for public power and protected rights. Liberia's current constitutional framework dates from 1986. Studying a constitutional issue means reading the relevant text carefully and distinguishing it from ordinary rules or personal opinions. Key content: 1. constitution the fundamental framework defining a state's institutions and protected rights. 2. sovereignty a state's authority over its public affairs, subject to its legal commitments. 3. legitimacy public authority's justified claim to be recognized and obeyed. 4. law a binding rule made or recognized through a legitimate legal process. 5. authority a recognized power to make decisions within defined limits.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 10 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Rule of law and due process

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in rule of law and due process. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	The rule of law requires public power to operate through law rather than arbitrary preference. Fair procedures include opportunities to understand and respond to allegations as required by applicable rules. Being accused is not itself proof of guilt. Key content: 1. law a binding rule made or recognized through a legitimate legal process. 2. due process fair procedures before a person is deprived of protected rights or interests. 3. presumption a starting legal assumption that must be respected unless lawfully displaced by evidence. 4. impartiality deciding fairly without favoring a person or group for irrelevant reasons. 5. appeal a request for an authorized body to review a decision.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 10 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: Constitutional rights in practice

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in constitutional rights in practice. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Rights can come into tension in practical situations. A careful response identifies whose interests are affected and what lawful limits apply. A classroom discussion is not a substitute for legal advice about a real dispute. Key content: 1. rights protected freedoms and entitlements that people may claim. 2. equality equal dignity and equal protection rather than automatic sameness in every circumstance. 3. liberty freedom to act and express oneself within lawful limits that respect others' rights. 4. privacy protection against unjustified intrusion into personal life and information. 5. dignity the inherent worth of every person.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 10 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: Checks, balances and public oversight

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in checks, balances and public oversight. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Checks and balances distribute power and create opportunities for lawful review. Institutional independence is not permission to ignore legal duties. Analysis should ask who has authority, which procedure applies and what safeguards protect fair decisions. Key content: 1. separation the distribution of state powers among different institutions. 2. oversight checking how power or resources are used. 3. legislature the branch of government responsible for making laws and exercising legislative oversight. 4. executive the branch of government responsible for administering laws and public policy. 5. judiciary the branch of government that interprets laws and resolves legal disputes.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 10 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Constitutional change and public debate

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in constitutional change and public debate. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Constitutional change follows the procedures established by the Constitution. Public debate should clarify the existing rule, proposed change and likely effects. A petition or popular message is not itself proof that a constitutional amendment has taken legal effect. Key content: 1. amendment a formal change made through an authorized procedure. 2. referendum a direct vote by eligible voters on a public question. 3. participation taking part in decisions or activities that affect a community. 4. evidence information that can support or challenge a claim. 5. dialogue a respectful exchange in which people speak and listen to understand one another.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 10 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: Justice and reconciliation

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in justice and reconciliation. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Reconciliation seeks safer relationships without denying harm. Justice, acknowledgment and appropriate remedies may support that process. Classroom work on Liberia's conflict and peace should use sensitive published material, never pressure learners to disclose traumatic experiences. Key content: 1. justice fair treatment, protection of rights and appropriate responses to wrongdoing. 2. reconciliation a process of rebuilding relationships after conflict without denying harms. 3. testimony a person's account of events they experienced or know about. 4. empathy trying to understand another person's feelings and situation. 5. restitution restoring property or compensating for a loss when appropriate.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 11 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Transparent public service

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in transparent public service. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Public service should respond to public needs through fair procedures. Transparent criteria make decisions easier to understand and review. Openness must still respect lawful confidentiality and personal privacy. Key content: 1. public interest the shared well-being of the community rather than a private advantage. 2. accountability the obligation to explain decisions and face appropriate review or consequences. 3. transparency making relevant decisions, rules and records open to appropriate scrutiny. 4. integrity acting honestly and consistently with fair ethical standards. 5. service work undertaken to meet other people's or a community's needs.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 11 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Procurement and conflicts of interest

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in procurement and conflicts of interest. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Procurement should seek appropriate value and follow applicable rules. A conflict of interest can exist even before proven wrongdoing. Disclosure, recusal where required and independent review help protect trust and fair competition. Key content: 1. procurement the process of acquiring goods or services for an organization. 2. conflict of interest a situation where a private interest may improperly influence a public duty. 3. bribery offering or receiving an improper benefit to influence a decision. 4. audit an independent or authorized examination of records and practices. 5. oversight checking how power or resources are used.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 11 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: Reading budgets and public accounts

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in reading budgets and public accounts. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A budget is a plan; accounts record what actually happened. Differences may have legitimate explanations or may require investigation. Compare dates, categories and evidence before drawing conclusions about spending. Key content: 1. budget a plan showing expected income and proposed expenditure. 2. revenue money received by an organization or government. 3. expenditure money spent for a stated purpose. 4. audit an independent or authorized examination of records and practices. 5. priority a need or goal given greater attention when resources are limited.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 11 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: Policy choices and evaluation

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in policy choices and evaluation. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A policy should state the problem, proposed action and intended results. Indicators help distinguish activity from improvement. Good evaluation considers unintended effects and asks whether changes can reasonably be attributed to the intervention. Key content: 1. policy a proposed or adopted course of action to address an issue. 2. stakeholder a person or group affected by or able to affect a decision. 3. indicator a measurable sign used to assess progress toward a goal. 4. evaluation a systematic judgment of how well an activity meets its goals. 5. evidence information that can support or challenge a claim.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 11 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Citizenship and inclusive development

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in citizenship and inclusive development. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Development involves opportunities and capabilities, not only higher money totals. A useful initiative should ask who can participate and who may be excluded. Enterprises can serve community needs while remaining accountable for environmental and social effects. Key content: 1. development improvement in people's capabilities, opportunities and living conditions. 2. inequality unequal access to resources, opportunities or outcomes. 3. entrepreneurship organizing an activity or enterprise to meet a need while managing risk. 4. accessibility designing places or information so people with different needs can use them. 5. sustainability meeting present needs without undermining future people's ability to meet theirs.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 11 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: Disaster readiness and civic responsibility

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in disaster readiness and civic responsibility. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Preparedness identifies risks before emergencies occur. Trusted guidance, safe routes and accessible communication help protect people. Learners should take age-appropriate roles rather than attempt rescues or handle dangerous materials. Key content: 1. resilience the ability to prepare for, withstand and recover from difficulty. 2. prevention action taken to reduce the chance of harm occurring. 3. cooperation working with others toward a shared purpose. 4. safety protection from foreseeable harm. 5. resource something people can use to meet a need.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 12 PERIOD: I*TOPIC: Liberia and international cooperation

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in Liberia and international cooperation. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	States cooperate on problems that cross borders while pursuing public interests. Liberia participates in regional and international institutions, including ECOWAS, the African Union and the United Nations. Membership does not mean every institution has identical powers or functions. Key content: 1. diplomacy communication and negotiation between states or their representatives. 2. treaty a formal international agreement governed by international law. 3. multilateralism cooperation involving several countries. 4. sovereignty a state's authority over its public affairs, subject to its legal commitments. 5. interdependence a relationship in which people or countries affect and depend on one another.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 12 PERIOD: II*TOPIC: Regional peace and collective action

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in regional peace and collective action. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Peacebuilding addresses causes of conflict as well as immediate violence. Regional cooperation can support communication, institutions and recovery. Claims about a specific mission or agreement should be checked against reliable records rather than generalized from another case. Key content: 1. peacebuilding long-term work to reduce causes of conflict and strengthen peaceful institutions. 2. diplomacy communication and negotiation between states or their representatives. 3. dialogue a respectful exchange in which people speak and listen to understand one another. 4. justice fair treatment, protection of rights and appropriate responses to wrongdoing. 5. cooperation working with others toward a shared purpose.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER ONEGRADE: 12 PERIOD: III*TOPIC: Migration, displacement and human dignity

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in migration, displacement and human dignity. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	People move for different and sometimes overlapping reasons. Refugee and asylum categories have legal meanings; not every migrant has the same status. Whatever their status, people should be treated with dignity, and real protection questions require competent advice. Key content: 1. migration movement of people from one place to another to live. 2. refugee a person outside their country who meets applicable legal criteria for international protection. 3. asylum protection sought or granted by a state to a person facing qualifying danger elsewhere. 4. displacement being forced or obliged to leave one's home. 5. humanitarian concerned with protecting people's lives and dignity in situations of need.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 12 PERIOD: IV*TOPIC: Economic interdependence and citizenship

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in economic interdependence and citizenship. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Trade connects producers and consumers across borders. Benefits and costs may be distributed unevenly, so civic analysis asks who gains, who bears risks and what fair safeguards are possible. An economic claim should distinguish evidence from a preferred policy position. Key content: 1. trade exchange of goods and services. 2. interdependence a relationship in which people or countries affect and depend on one another. 3. development improvement in people's capabilities, opportunities and living conditions. 4. inequality unequal access to resources, opportunities or outcomes. 5. tax a compulsory payment imposed by law to support public purposes.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 12 PERIOD: V*TOPIC: Digital citizenship and public debate

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in digital citizenship and public debate. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	Digital participation leaves records that can travel beyond the intended audience. Responsible sharing involves checking claims, protecting personal information and respecting creators' rights. A public-interest purpose does not automatically justify exposing private details. Key content: 1. digital footprint the trail of information created by a person's digital activities. 2. privacy protection against unjustified intrusion into personal life and information. 3. consent freely given and informed agreement to a specific action. 4. verification checking a claim against reliable and preferably independent evidence. 5. intellectual property legal interests protecting certain creative works, inventions and distinctive signs.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence

SEMESTER TWOGRADE: 12 PERIOD: VI*TOPIC: Civic inquiry and an action proposal

OUTCOMES	OBJECTIVES	CONTENTS	ACTIVITIES	MATERIALS / RESOURCES	COMPETENCIES	ASSESSMENT
Learners are able to: Use civic vocabulary accurately. Explain a decision using reasons and relevant evidence. Listen respectfully to alternative views.	Upon completion of this topic, learners will: 1. Explain the five key concepts in civic inquiry and an action proposal. 2. Identify the people and interests affected by a civic decision. 3. Apply the unit's ideas to a fictional classroom scenario. 4. Justify a safe, fair and evidence-based response.	A civic inquiry turns a broad concern into an answerable question. A sound proposal states evidence, affected groups, feasible actions, responsibilities and review measures. Ethical inquiry protects participants and clearly reports uncertainties. Key content: 1. evidence information that can support or challenge a claim. 2. consultation seeking affected people's views before making a decision. 3. policy a proposed or adopted course of action to address an issue. 4. indicator a measurable sign used to assess progress toward a goal. 5. accountability the obligation to explain decisions and face appropriate review or consequences.	Inclusive and differentiated Learning: Individual seat work or group work in mixed groups, according to abilities, gender and learning styles: 1. Discuss the fictional scenario in pairs. 2. Match key terms with meanings and explain the differences. 3. Role-play a respectful decision-making discussion without using real political affiliations. 4. Explain two unit concepts in your own words. 5. Describe the classroom scenario and identify affected people. 6. Compare two possible responses and explain a safe, fair recommendation. 7. Present the poster and respond respectfully to questions.	Materials: Chalkboard or reusable paper Teacher-reviewed copies of this unit For constitutional topics: a teacher-verified copy of Liberia's Constitution Source status: Original teaching resource; not an official curriculum transcription or official examination material. Digital research links: None listed by design the course runs fully offline.	Expected competencies: Effective Communication Evidence-Based Reasoning Respectful Dialogue and Collaboration Decision-Making and Problem Solving Civic Responsibility and Participation	Assessment strategies: Tools that can be used to check the competencies: Five-term vocabulary check Scenario response with reasons Poster assessed for accuracy, fairness and evidence